HEAVY SECURITY: Police were out in force around the Montreal police headquarters building Monday, keeping traffic, passersby and newsmen on the other side of barricades that sealed off streets for a block around the building. The newsmen were waiting for the possible release of lawyer Robert Lemieux, who was arrested Sunday. (CP Wirephoto)

Long-Haired Lawyer Talks For Terrorists

MONTREAL (AP) — The Quebec government opened negotiations during the night with the kidnapers of a British diplomat and a provincial cabinet minister as hundreds of armed combat troops joined police in guarding politicians, diplomats and other prominent persons in Ottawa.

Robert Lemieux, a long-haired lawyer awaiting trial on a charge of obstructing justice, was representing the Quebec Liberation Front—the FLQ—which kidnapped British Trade Commissioner James Richard Cross Oct. 5 and abducted Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte Saturday.

CONTACT MAN

Another Montreal lawyer, Robert Demers, was appointed as the provincial government's contact man.

The two men met in the downtown police station where Lemieux had been held since Sunday in connection with the investigation into the kidnappings. After midnight Justice Minister Jerome Choquette announced that Lemieux was being paroled, apparently to expedite the negotiations for the release of Cross and Laporte, but several hours later the FLQ representative was still being held.

Lemieux is an advocate of Quebec's separation from Canada and has frequently defended terrorist members of the FLQ in court. The FLQ's aim is separation of the French-speaking province from the rest of Canada and its establishment as an independent state.

The FLQ cell that kidnapped Cross says it will free the Briton if the government releases 23 men convicted or awaiting trial for political terrorism, and if the police call off their investigation into the kidnappings.

The cell that abducted Laporte has made the same demands plus four others: $500,000 in ransom, the name and picture of an alleged informer against the FLQ, publication of FLQ propaganda, and reinstatement of all truck drivers who lost their jobs when the city took over mail deliveries in Montreal.

The kidnapers have warned repeatedly that they will kill their hostages unless the government meets their demands. One FLQ communiqué Monday said that "we are setting no deadlines. However, if you show evident bad faith, we will return to action."

The cell holding Cross added: "Our patience does have limits."

ANOTHER MESSAGE

A radio station at Trois-Rivières, 75 miles northeast of Montreal, received another communiqué early today purporting to come from kidnapers, but there was some doubt of its authenticity. It said "the two hostages will be executed" if the 23 prisoners were not released by midnight tonight and added that this was the "final" deadline. If authentic, it would be the eighth deadline set by the kidnapers and the third they termed the last and final.

The first big break in the kidnapping case came Monday when both cells released communiqués authorizing Lemieux to act as their representative. Previously the kidnapers had refused government offers to negotiate through intermediaries.

One communiqué was accompanied by a handwritten note from Cross, who thanked Provincial Premier Robert Bourassa for arranging the negotiations and "saving my life and that of Mr. Laporte."

A letter from Laporte urged the Quebec government to make it possible for the "political prisoners" demanded by the FLQ to leave the province in the next day or two.

Berrien Board

Push Crackdown On Welfare Dads

A plan to cut Berrien county's mounting welfare rolls by forcing responsible parties to pay support won the blessing of Berrien county commissioners Monday.

Acting on a resolution from their own county administration committee, commissioners authorized the board chairman and clerk to sign a $37,850 contract with the Michigan Department of Social Services to beef up the Berrien prosecuting attorney's staff for welfare probes.

The state agency effective Oct. 1 approved a pilot project of $30,850, matched by $7,000 of Berrien county funds and services, to hire for Prosecutor Ronald J. Taylor a fulltime assistant prosecutor, investigator and clerk for one year.

Of the $7,000 in goods and services, Taylor told commissioners, real expenses will total approximately $2,700 for fringe benefits for the three new employees and the balance will be in the form of office rental, supplies and equipment.

STARTS NOV. 1

The plan starts hopefully Nov. 1 and one employee, the clerk, Mrs. C. J. Medders, already has been selected. She has been Taylor's paternity clerk for the past 1½ years. Taylor said he has prospects for the other two jobs and the investigator may be hired within a week.

Maximum salaries for the posts are: $12,800 for the assistant prosecutor, $9,000 for the investigator, and $5,250 for the clerk.

Commissioners also voted 16 to 3 to furnish free office space to the Berrien County Legal Services Bureau for another year, despite a charge that the bureau "seems to be running a war with the welfare department."

Commissioner R. J. Burkholz noted newspaper reports that the bureau was suing the social services department in several instances to try to make more people eligible for ADC funds. The legal bureau operates with federal anti-poverty funds and the county has furnished office space as an in-kind contribution as a local matching cost share. The bureau's quarters are in a small county-owned building between the jail and courthouse.

Commissioners George Reinhardt and Otto Grau both said that despite the legal bureau's suits against social services the county welfare head, Wesley Bowerman, considers its other work a useful contribution.

Grav said the bureau handles many divorce suits for women unable to afford them otherwise. This, he asserted, clears the way for some women ADC recipients to marry men they are living with and gives them a new source of support and gets them off welfare rolls.

ROLLS APPROVED

Commissioners yesterday approved drain special assessment rolls amounting to $69,416 for drainage improvements in various parts of the county. The board also agreed to pay a $9,473 drain assessment levied against the county road commission from the county general fund.

These approvals followed a review of his own work by County Drain Commissioner Hazen Harner. He reported 172 county drains were repaired or improved during the past year. Incumbents on four county boards and commissions were renominated to succeed themselves, and the nominations were left open until November for possible additions.

C. W. Henkle of Lakeside and David Upton of St. Joseph were renominated for new three-year terms on the planning commission, while Harry Gast, Jr., of Stevensville and Herbert Seeder

Milliken Proposes Riot Center

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William Milliken today called for creation of a new civil disorder center within the Michigan State Police to improve the state's ability to respond to outbreaks of violence.

Milliken also proposed State Police participation in the national bomb data center, declassification of large correctional institutions — including division of the state prison at Southern Michigan into four smaller units — and use of crime control grants to improve court systems.

Outlining what he called "a comprehensive program to expand the state's role in crime control," Milliken said he planned to assign a major role to the lieutenant governor in administering the state's crime control efforts.

That role, Milliken noted, would be filled by his running mate, former U. S. Atty. James Brickley, if voters elect the Republican team next month.

Milliken said his crime control proposals would "foster a coordinated attack" while at the same time preserving essential constitutional guarantees.

Berrien Hikes Fee For Dog Licenses

The price of dog licenses will go up again next year in Berrien county.

The county board of commissioners Monday approved a $4 license fee per dog for 1971. This is a jump of $1 from last year's $3 price, and $1.50 over the charge of two years ago.

Supervisor Otto Grau, chairman of the county administration committee and himself a dog owner, said the raise was necessary if the county canine control department is to continue as a self-supporting part of the county government.

Only Supervisor Edward Grieger opposed the hike on the floor.

In a related action, the board approved an order to purchase 23,000 brass dog tags for 1971.

Sparks Settles With Beebe In Civil Suit

By JERRY KRIEGER
County-Farm Editor

CASSOPOLIS — A five-year-old civil suit by Harold Sparks, former Cass county Extension Service director, against Palmer Beebe, prominent Dowagiac farmer, has been settled out of court.

Terms of the settlement were not disclosed.

An order of dismissal was entered in Cass county circuit court Monday, just previous to a scheduled opening of trial of the $100,000 suit today. An "amicable agreement" was indicated in the dismissal order.

FIRE BY MSU

Sparks filed suit in July of 1965 for $100,000 damages, claiming Beebe and two Michigan State University Extension Service officials had maliciously interfered with his employment relationship with MSU. As county Extension Service director, Sparks had been in the employment of the university.

Sparks was fired from the job by the university April 30, 1965, after 24 years as an Extension agent.

Dr. N. P. Ralston, former head of the MSU Extension

Service, and D. A. Caul, a former regional director for the service, were dismissed as defendants in the suit in November of 1966 by Judge Karl F. Zick of Berrien county. The judge ruled the two Extension officials were public officials acting in performance of their jobs and thus not subject to civil liability.

The suit alleged that Beebe, active in state Democratic party circles, circulated petitions asking Sparks' removal from the county agricultural advisors post. Sparks maintained his good name and reputation had been brought into public scandal and disgrace as result of the action.

Sparks publicly had claimed his firing was motivated because of his own conservative political philosophy.

WON'T TELL TERMS

Sparks said late Monday that his counsel, Atty. Lee Boothby of Niles, and the attorney for Beebe had agreed that the settlement terms were not to be made public, and that he would honor that agreement.

"I only regret that the defendants who, early in the suit claimed immunity from civil liability as a result of their employment with Michigan State University, which is a government institution, were able to escape responsibility early in the proceedings." His reference was to Ralston and Caul.

Sparks currently is farm program director for radio station WLKM in Three Rivers and is in farming partnership with three sons, operating 1,660 acres of land in Penn township, Cass county. Part of the property is a centennial farm.

Robbery Suspect Arrested In Benton

Benton township police Monday arrested Walter Lee Travier, Jr., alias Travis, 21, of 126 Chestnut street, on a charge of armed robbery in connection with the Oct. 8 holdup of the Citgo station, Fair and Britain avenues. He was arrested in his home on a warrant.

Two men robbed two attendants of $548 at gunpoint in one of five robberies that have occurred this month in Benton Harbor and Benton township.

Travier was taken into custody after another man was arrested earlier Monday on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. Sam Machelle, Jr., 19, of 975 Buss avenue, Benton Harbor, was booked on the weapons charge after police stopped a car that had been parked near a Napier avenue service station.

J. Jack Drach said a .38 caliber Colt pistol was found. Subsequent investigation led to obtaining a warrant for the arrest of Travier.

Drach said ballistics tests at the state crime lab showed the .38 caliber Colt was not involved in the Oct. 5 slaying of William L. Freeman, an attendant at the Checker station, 928 Territorial road.

Travier and Machelle were arraigned in Fifth district court yesterday. Travier demanded examination and bond was set at $25,000. Machelle waived examination and bond was set at $5,000.

Three of the service station robberies and the murder occurred near closing time. The other occurred at an all-night station.

Twin Cities Will Miss

Dr. John Manning

The Twin Cities are losing more than an outstanding physician with the decision of Dr. John Manning to close his practice here and move to California. They are losing a blithe spirit whose discerning humor has refreshed and buoyed associates, patients and friends for 20 years.

Consigned to Hell, John Manning would ask the Devil if he had a burning permit. Elevated to Heaven, he would inquire if St. Peter had a pilot's license.

Dr. Manning is about as entrenched in the "establishment" as anyone can get: a highly-trained internist, one of this area's most sought-after medics, a Sunday school teacher, and a member of the St. Joseph Township Board of Trustees. But the handsome, witty medic carries it all with the air of a mischievous school boy who has just succeeded in depositing a bottle of "Scope" on the principal's desk.

He can puncture pompous pretense with an offhand remark, even a wry glance. And he's at his most ingratiating when he turns his humor on himself, as he often does.

Most recently he has, with good effect, been using his charming persuasiveness to remove the political roadblock that has stymied a decade of effort to obtain community unanimity on construction of an I-94 penetrator into St. Joseph. Indications are that St. Joseph and St. Joseph township are compromising past differences in order to present a united front to the State Highway Department.

Losing Dr. Manning's services as a medic will be a real blow here. The community already has far fewer doctors per capita than the national average. Dr. Manning is the third physician to leave here during the past several months to join one or another of the Permanent clinics in California. Dr. Richard Crowell, St. Joseph urologist, and Dr. Hackley Woodford, general practitioner, left earlier.

This development confirms a trend toward "group" or clinical medicine that is going on nationwide. It serves also as a message to the Twin Cities that physical facilities for group medicine may have to be provided locally if the community is going to attract new doctors.

There are many advantages in group medicine for physicians. The pace is not so arduous; opportunities for continuing education are greater; responsibilities are shared; and the doctors divest themselves of the need to run an office.

Fortunately, trustees of both Mercy and Memorial hospitals have been apprised of the growing demand by physicians for group practice. Boards of both hospitals have discussed the situation and are seeking answers. As usual, economics are at the crux of the matter. Providing convenient office space attached to the hospitals seems to be the ultimate solution.

Peace Offer Timing

Sparks Speculation

One of the most intriguing questions, and perhaps the central question, about President Nixon's proposals on Southeast Asia is this: Why are they being made just at this time? Many will jump to the easy conclusion that the administration wanted to give Republican candidates a boost in the imminent elections. This may have played some part in the decision to offer the proposals now; the cynical will suggest it was the only consideration.

The most reasonable answer springs from the fact that fighting throughout South Vietnam has been on the decline since shortly after the Cambodian operation. Apparently the U.S. command feels that, for the present at least, our forces have the upper hand.

Senator Barry Goldwater goes so far as to predict that a ceasefire will come within a week to 10 days. He said last Friday he didn't believe Nixon would have made the offer had the President not had some assurance it would be accepted.

An extensive review of the Vietnamese fighting made by Los Angeles Times correspondent George McArthur casts light on the situation. He asserts that although the war may be far from over, and although officials in Saigon are not overly optimistic, the general feeling there is that Hanoi is currently at a standstill.

First, they point out, infiltration into South Vietnam came almost to a halt three months ago. No significant North Vietnamese replacements have come into the vital III and IV Corps area in southern Vietnam. Along with this there has been a slowdown in the flow of supplies into the south. In addition, many of the former large units of the North Vietnamese and Vietcong armies are said to have reverted to guerrilla status.

All of this, Saigon analysts argue, has played a part in the combat slowdown. It is noteworthy, also, that while the level of fighting has declined, direct American troop commitment also has been on the decline.

These are conditions that seem to favor a United States initiative at this time. That, at any rate, is the way Mr. Nixon and his advisors seem to read the situation. As for the question whether the Communists also see it enough that way to cause them to respond positively, that is quite a different matter.

The nub of the proposals is that there be a standstill ceasefire and a new international conference to attempt a settlement. What President Nixon offers, in essence, is a variant of that ancient formula for peace: Let's stop the killing while we talk about a permanent end of the war.

This is a sound formula, though heaven knows nations do not always submit themselves to it. If these proposals do spark a genuine ceasefire, then there will be cause to applaud the President's diplomacy. Americans can only hope that the slowdown in fighting is not a calculated lull, with new Communist offensives in prospect.

The marvelous nonsense of which college students used to be made may be due for a rerun. An example is the first panty raid by male students on a coed dorm at Cornell University in 20 years.

A more hilarious example was provided for its students by Oregon U, which actually offered a one-credit course in "Frisbee techniques and special implications" this semester. After taxpayers questioned the educational value of tossing plastic dishes around, the university rescinded credit for the course.

Frisbee enthusiasts then massed in front of the administration building and complained their sport requires as much skill as other courses. Fly-casting, for example, Gilroy called his production of "Roses" one of Broadway's "best kept secrets" because of its low budget for advertising and the fact that it did not have a big name star in the cast.

Gilroy, was born in 1925, was the son of a coffee broker. He attended schools in the Bronx and, in 1943, was drafted into the Army. During his 18 months in Europe, he wrote two stories and came out with the desire and determination to write.

Gilroy's script for "The Gallant Hours," a film biography of Adm. William F. Halsey, elicited praise from critics for its "superb comprehension" of the admiral's ordeal.

"Who'll Save the Plowboy?" was an earlier play, but it also drew kudos from the reviewers.

Inside Washington

WASHINGTON — Lyndon Baines Johnson, a name conspicuously absent from political conversations since 1968, has re-emerged as a topic of the Washington rumor mill and, if the stories are true, the former president will be very much back in the news before the 1972 Democratic National Convention.

Reliable observers of Texas politics think Johnson is out to reconstruct the New England-Texas axis that united the Democratic party in 1960 and produced eight years of Democratic rule in the executive branch.

This would be done through a ticket headed by Maine's Democratic Sen. Edmund Muskie with former Texas Governor and Johnson crone John Connally in the vice presidential slot.

What started the stories of prospective Johnson king-making was his sudden entry into the Democratic campaign in Texas where Republicans are making a strong bid to elect a U.S. senator and governor this fall.

In recent weeks Johnson has been like the glad-handing politician of old, slumping the state in support of the threatened Democratic ticket. And Johnson efforts could spell the difference between victory and defeat for Democrats in Texas this fall.

Faced with two relatively conservative Democrats on the ticket, leaders of the state's sizable Negro and Mexican-American voters have threatened to boycott the election or vote for GOP candidates.

.. And Speaking

Of Your Health

The tongue tells many tales. This is not meant to be a medical pun. Rather, does it indicate why "stick out your tongue and say ah," is almost invariably the beginning of a complete medical examination.

The appearance of the tongue, the color, the size, the moisture, the markings, all tell a medical tale that may, in some instances, point the way to an exact diagnosis.

A wealth of information is gleaned from the tongue by the physician who carefully inspects it.

Infections, nutritional deficiencies, allergies, lead and other metal poisonings, tumors, and birth abnormalities, are readily recognized.

A red strawberry-colored tongue is often associated with scarlet fever. A smooth magenta-colored tongue suggests the possibility of a vitamin D deficiency. A black tongue is often associated with a fungus infection following long use of antibiotics.

A severe allergy may produce a marked swelling of the tongue. This is known as angioedema. This is not, as the name might suggest, a neurotic or psychological disturbance, but rather an important allergic occurrence.

Occasionally there are deep furrows of no special significance that give the appearance of a "geographic" tongue.

While patches on the tongue are known as leukoplakia which become a source of disturbance in people who have poorly fitting dentures, or those who are "hot" pipe smokers. I am frequently distressed by this tremendous anxiety that patients display about these white patches because they have been told to "watch them." What is even worse is the suggestion that they may be "pre-malignant."

I believe that our whole body is pre-malignant, and it does us a great disservice if we spend all our waking hours watching a white spot that "may become malignant." I would much rather that those patches would be under constant observation by the doctor or the dentist, who makes the proper suggestions about how to keep them from progressing.

I have known patients who have spent their lives in terror about such a condition that might never change. Fear can be devastating, and should not be induced into the lives of people who are already far more terrified than they should be.

It is surprising how often an adult patient simply refuses to let a doctor "use the stick" to see the tongue. This is a throwback to childhood when a child was forcibly made to open his mouth by "jamming a stick" into it. Today, with a better psychological insight, children respond more readily to a few extra moments of patience.

The tongue really does speak a tale of importance about the general condition of the body.

Opening lead—king of diamonds.

A fine declarer will sometimes go to exceptional lengths to stop the dangerous opponent from taking the lead. Here is an example of the art.

West leads the king of diamonds and if South is not extremely careful he will go down against proper defense. The first critical move comes at trick one, when he should allow West to win the king of diamonds in order to squash any possibility of him later underleading the queen to get a return to his hand with a trump and lead a heart again towards dummy. In the actual case West produces the king — which dummy ducks — and West is then kaput. As a matter of fact, if West does not cash his ace of clubs now, he loses it.

If West does not produce the king on the second heart lead (because he started with either three or four hearts to the king), South still has the contract in tow. He goes up with the ace, leads another heart, and again West finds himself at the end of his rope.

Cornelius Bass Named Civil Service Board Vacancy Is Filled

Cornelius Bass, Sr., 63, last night was appointed to the Benton Harbor civil service board to succeed Rex Sheeley, who resigned last May.

Mayor Wilbert Smith recommended the appointment, terming Bass, "a gentleman of the highest order." Members of the city commission during their regular session responded with unanimous acceptance of the appointment.

Sheeley resigned from the

civil service board after disqualifying himself from hearings on two dismissed police officers. He disqualifies himself because he formerly served with the city police department. The resignation was to enable the appointment of a person who could break a deadlock in the hearings created by the two other members. The case went into circuit court where the dismissals were upheld.

Bass, who resides with his wife, Eula, at 768 East High street, will serve until July 1, 1973.

LONG-TIME RESIDENT
He has been active in the local Model Cities program since its inception, serving on the citizens' steering committee. In his first and only bid for public office in 1957, Bass was an unsuccessful candidate for the Benton Harbor board of education.

Bass has resided in Benton Harbor for 46 years. He retired last year after seven years service as a driver-salesman for Producers Creamery, but currently is working part time with Durable Products.

Before joining Producers Creamery, Bass was in the gasoline business as a dealer for 18 years. He also has been employed as a molder for Auto Specialties Manufacturing Co., Benton Harbor Malleable Industries and has been employed by Michigan Gas Utilities Co. The couple have a son, Cornelius Bass, Jr., a Whirlpool Corp. employee.

LOT LEASED
During its business session, the commission voted to lease to Lee Hornack for $80 a month a lot at the southeast corner of Wall and Colfax. Hornack in September acquired a similar lease with the city for a lot south of the Fidelity building. Hornack, involved in Fidelity building management, said both sites are to serve as parking lots.

The commission voted to purchase seven police cars from Ashley Ford Sales, Inc., for a net price of $14,379.89. The firm's bid was the lower of two received. No delivery time was specified.

Approved following a hearing was a special permit to enable owners of Colonial flower shop, Britan and Broadway, to use a nearby lot for parking.

The commission voted to advertise for bids to demolish a derelict house and garage at 376 High street, and awarded a contract for $28 to Bilton & Bilton Excavating, to demolish a derelict house at 794 East Vineyard.

Returning after an absence of five weeks because of illness was Commissioner F. Joseph Flaugh. He voiced appreciation to fellow commissioners for flowers they sent to him.

Luncheon Clubs Host Optimistic Report Session

United Community Fund took a big leap forward yesterday when the latest report showed that campaign pledges now stand at $339,017, or 57.4 per cent of the $590,800 goal.

At one of the biggest UCF report luncheons in recent years, some 250 people crowded into the St. Joseph Elks lodge. The sponsors of the luncheon were the Twin Cities Rotary club, Benton Harbor Kiwanis club and Benton Harbor Exchange club. The three clubs held a joint weekly meeting, coordinated it with a UCF report and hosted UCF volunteers.

After a slow campaign start, UCF Campaign Chairman Charles W. Johnson viewed yesterday's report with optimism. A week ago, when UCF had only 28.5 per cent of its quota, Johnson had set 60 per cent as the target for yesterday. He fell about $15,000 short of his objective for the day, but the increase in pledges during the past week came to more than $170,000.

BIG JOB AHEAD

Johnson noted, however, that the big job lies ahead. UCF still needs more than $250,000 to reach its goal, and Johnson is hoping for another major surge in contributions within the next week. The date for the next scheduled UCF report will be announced within a few days.

One cause for campaign optimism, Johnson noted, is the settlement of labor strikes at the St. Joseph division of Whirlpool Corp. and the Kaywood division of Joanna West.

"We hope that the employees of these companies will now join the campaign and be as generous as most of the other people in the Twin Cities," Johnson said. "It's imperative that every UCF volunteer work all his pledge cards and turn them in to their captains as soon as possible."

Two sections of the giant Industrial division stood out in yesterday's report. Industrial Division D, headed by Edward Damschroder, has $64,787, or 83.6 per cent of its goal of $77,500. Richard Humbert's Industrial Division E has 73.8 per cent. Pledges come to $14,484 on a goal of $155,000.

OTHER TOTALS

Other division totals are: Utilities, Transportation and Construction — $20,891 of a $33,000 goal, for 63.3 per cent; Industrial B — $59,763 of a $95,000 goal, for 62.9 per cent; Industrial F — $732 of a $1,300 goal, for 56.3 per cent; Professional — $13,694 of a $26,000 goal, for 52.7 per cent; Industrial C — $22,723 of a $48,000 goal, for 47.3 per cent; Women — $5,714 of a $13,000 goal, for 44 per cent.

Special Gifts — $12,320 of a $30,000 goal, for 41.1 per cent; Retail, Wholesale and Services — $7,895 of a $23,000 goal, for 34.3 per cent; National Firms — $6,500 of a $21,000 goal, for 31 per cent; Public Services — $5,078 of a $23,000 goal, for 22.1 per cent; Finance, Real Estate and Insurance — $3,012 of an $18,000 goal, for 16.7 per cent; and Industrial A — $1,422 of a $27,000 goal, for 5.3 per cent.

COLUMBUS DAY THEME

Since yesterday's UCF report was held on Columbus Day, the theme of the meeting was appropriately dedicated to the discoverer of America. In an amusing skit, Dale (Tex) Burrows portrayed Columbus, Miss Suzanne Dahn was Queen Isabella and Jim Smith acted the role of King Ferdinand.

In the UCF version of Columbus' exploits, he sets out to reach the goal "in the promised land of Benton Harbor and St. Joseph." Paraphrasing the UCF campaign slogan, he vows: "If I don't do it, it won't get done."

Johnson thanked the Rotarians, Kiwanians and Exchangeites for their joint sponsorship of the UCF luncheon and gave the president of each club a special citation. Since the Twin Cities Community Chest was founded in 1942, he noted, 19 chest board presidents and 17 campaign chairmen have come from the ranks of the three clubs. Many volunteers in the 1970 drive also belong to the clubs, including Johnson, who is a Rotarian.

Rotarian Robert Crawford was the chairman of the day. Don Brohan was master of ceremonies and Robert Wall presented gag awards to the day's

UCF Youth In Need Of Sale Items

Items are still needed for the United Community Fund youth division rummage sale, Miss Julie O'Mara, chairman of the UCF youth group, said today.

The rummage sale will be held this Friday night from 5 to 9 p.m. and on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the YWCA, St. Joseph. All proceeds will go to the UCF campaign.

Small odds and ends are particularly needed. Miss O'Mara indicated. Persons with rummage to donate are asked to drop them off at the main desk of the YWCA.

Miss Suzanne Dahn and Mike Simeck are co-chairmen of the rummage sale. It is the second youth division event of the campaign. A car wash was held on Oct. 3.

Airline's Traffic Is Down Here

North Central airlines passenger traffic at Ross field during September declined from its 1969 September level, according to statistics from E. J. Weisbruch, airport manager.

The decline follows North Central's decision on Sept. 8 to switch an afternoon flight from O'Hare airport to Midway airport in Chicago. The Twin Cities Airport board has protested to the airline that local patrons prefer O'Hare as their destination.

There were 1,722 passengers on flights leaving Ross field, or 489 fewer than September of 1969. Arriving passengers numbered 1,714, a decline of 286.

Despite the September decrease, 33,510 passengers have passed through Ross field gates so far this year, compared with 32,778 at this time last year.

During September, the airport handled 23,384 pounds of mail (22,076 pounds in Sept., 1969), 26,170 pounds of express (33,288 pounds last September) and 66,780 pounds of freight (60,327 last September).

LANSING (AP)—A State Public Service Commission hearing on how a $14.70 million rate increase granted Michigan Bell Telephone Co. will be charged to customers resumed Monday and will continue today.

The 3.1 per cent increase was granted Aug. 31. Michigan Bell has some 2.4 million customers in 76 Michigan counties.

St. Joe Project If Marina's Feasible, State Will Pay For It

The state is willing to build a marina on the St. Joseph river near Hickory creek if an engineering study approved last night by the St. Joseph city commission proves its feasibility.

Commissioners agreed to split a $4,500 bill with the state for a study and report by the Muskegon engineering firm of Alfred E. Hansen. The city's share will be paid by the Harbor Authority, City Manager Leland Hill said.

The 10.8 acre tract on the river was donated by Mr. and Mrs. Dwight (Curly) Holland last August when a proposed marina in Tiscornia park was vetoed by the Army Corps of engineers.

The city manager said this offer from the State Waterways commission indicates the state is ready to finance in its entirety the marina once it is proved practical.

When complete, the marina would be operated by the city, Hill said, with a certain percentage of the proceeds going to the state. He estimated there would be room for several hundred boats on the site, which includes some 850 feet of riverfront.

In other business, commissioners referred to the planning commission a request from Richard Ludwig of Ludwig real estate for a special use permit to construct an eight-unit, one-bedroom apartment building at South State street and Chimeria court.

They also approved the appointment of 55 election workers to man the polls on the Nov. 3 election day.

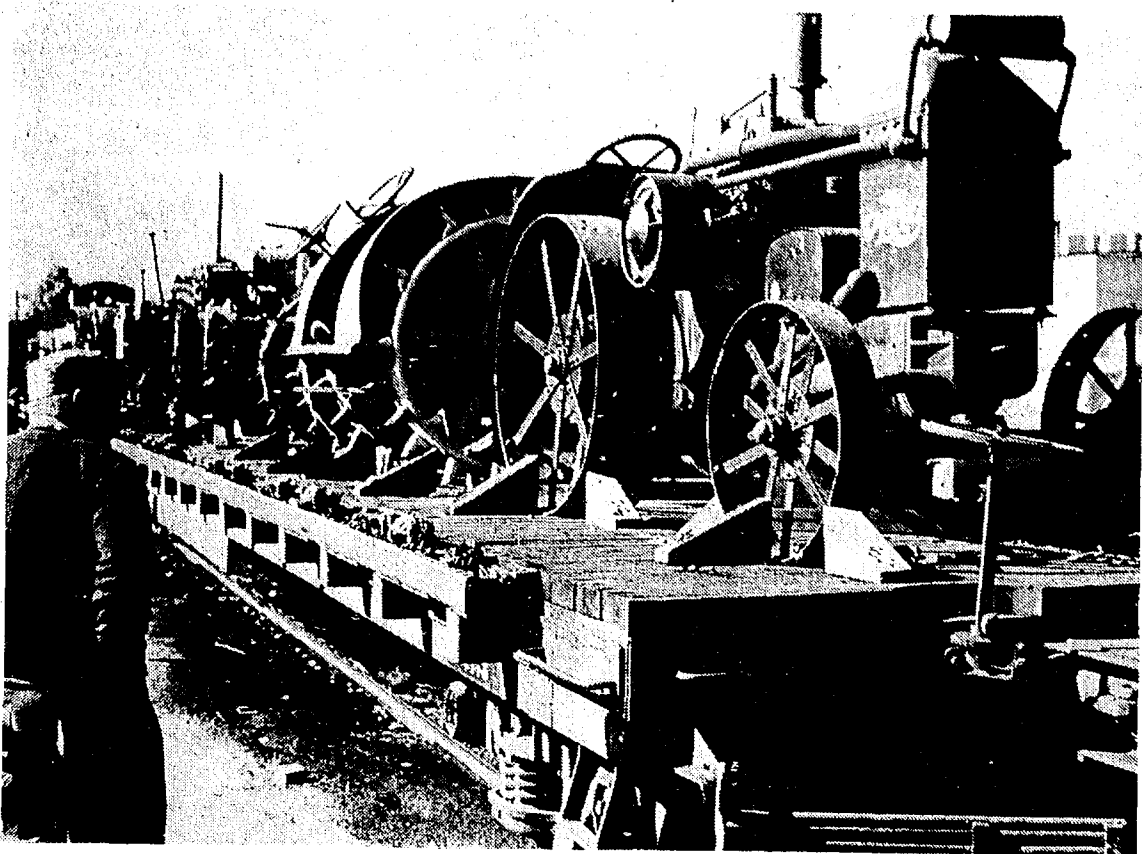

PANCAKE DAY PLANS: General Chairman Norbert Kent checks with committee chairmen in preparation for the eighth annual St. Joseph Kiwanis Pancake day to be held Monday, Oct. 19 at the St. Joseph Elks club. Serving of pancakes (all you can eat), sausages, syrup and coffee or milk will be from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. and from 5 to 8 p.m. Funds go to Kiwanis park projects. Hose Snaps;
4 Firemen
Are InjuredTwo Hospitalized
At South Haven

SOUTH HAVEN — Four members of the South Haven fire department were injured Monday night when a hose coupling ruptured during a drill. Admitted to South Haven Community Hospital were Assistant Volunteer Chief Richard Lundy, 48, Aylworth avenue, with skull, shoulder and rib injuries and fulltime fireman Edward Bierhalter, 42, 510 Edgell street, with abdominal injuries. They were listed in "fairly good" condition today.

Also injured were Volunteer Captain Chuck Tourtellotte, 46, 205 Bailey avenue, with a fractured left wrist and volunteer fireman Tom Renner, 25, 828 South Haven place, with a facial cut. Both were released after treatment.

The firemen were testing the department's new snorkel-pumper truck when the mishap occurred about 7:40 p.m. The engine was pumping at 400 pounds pressure when a two and one-half inch hose pulled away from a coupling attached to the truck striking Lundy and Bierhalter. Tourtellotte was thrown from atop the truck while Renner was struck by a piece of shrapnel.

The firemen were pumping water from a hydrant on Dunkley avenue near the Winkel Lumber company. Water was being pumped into three hoses and the snorkel.

Department officials said they planned to notify the truck manufacturer, American Fire Apparatus of Battle Creek. The truck was delivered to the city this past July. It was not damaged.

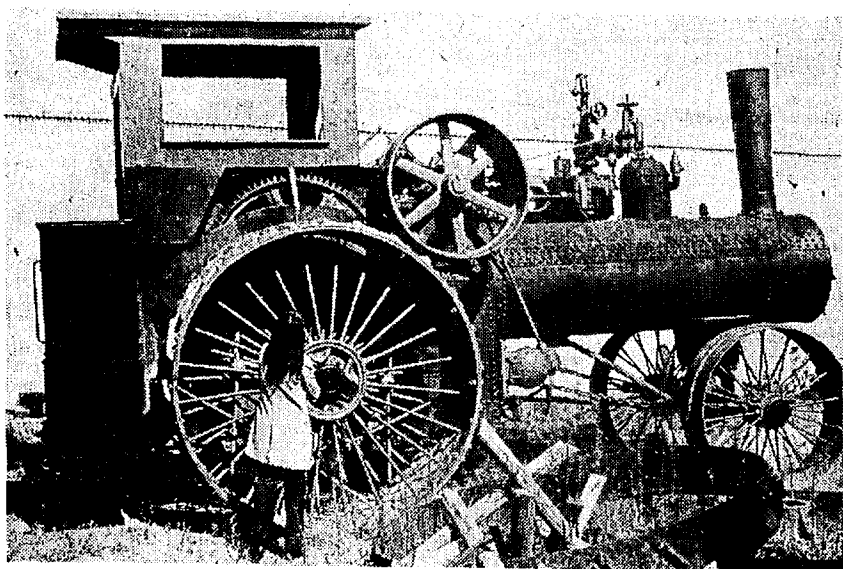

Seek 'Yes' Vote
On Proposal C

LANSING (AP) — Officials from the Council Against Parochialism say they are forming a statewide organization push for passage of the controversial Proposal C, a ballot question that would ban state aid to private schools if approved by voters Nov. 3.

Mrs. Kathryn Boucher, executive director of CAP, said Monday that the organization will distribute materials, lead discussion groups on the parochial question and "get out a yes vote."

Hartford Board Asks
Okay On Bond Issue

HARTFORD — The Hartford school board agreed Monday night to seek state approval of a $2,423,375 bond issue scheduled to go before voters Dec. 8.

The bond issue is to finance construction of a proposed middle school, housing students in grades five through eight. A similar measure was defeated by Hartford voters in June.

Superintendent Gary Waterkamp said the Dec. 8 election date hinges on approval by the Michigan Municipal Finance commission and formal board approval prior to an Oct. 23 deadline.

The proposed school of 22 classrooms would be built on a 22-acre site where the high school and an elementary building are located.

In other business, Waterkamp announced that official enrollment in the district has been set at 1,731, an increase of 99 over the figure recorded a year ago.

Waterkamp reported that the maintenance crew at the high school is removing a greenhouse no longer used by the district.

The board authorized the purchase of a portable classroom from Imperial Equipment corporation, Detroit, at a cost of $11,999. The Detroit firm was lowest among three bidders on the 24 by 36-foot unit.

The portable structure will be used to house special education classes at South elementary school.

The board also agreed to allow signing of checks from the general fund with one signature instead of three as required previously. All checks from the general fund require board approval prior to signing.

Funds Are Included
In BudgetSheriff Says
Issue Still
In DiscussionBy STEVE McQUOWN
Paw Paw Bureau

PAW PAW — Van Buren county commissioners Monday afternoon gave preliminary approval to a $1.7 million 1971 county budget.

Included was a new fund of $65,000 for continued operation of ambulance service by the sheriff's department at least through 1971.

Sheriff Richard Stump made no immediate commitment on whether his department will agree to continue operating the service next year. "It's open for negotiations on its present basis," he said.

The sheriff's department has handled the ambulance service since mid-1967. But increasing costs have forced some commissioners to consider asking villages and townships to provide their own service.

HEARING ON BUDGET

The proposed 1971 budget of $1,713,015, will receive official action by commission Oct. 27.

Commissioners will be at the courthouse Oct. 22 to receive any public comments on the proposed budget, according to Daniel Fox, commissioner from Decatur and chairman of the board's finance committee.

The county budget this year is $1,618,554.

No funds for ambulance service had been included in the proposed budget prior to Monday, Fox said.

But while commissioners earmarked $65,000 for the fund, they did not discuss a finance committee recommendation to reduce the sheriff's department strength from 24 to 17 deputies.

Stump who has promised his men five-day work weeks instead of six said Monday night, it would be "impossible" for his department to operate the ambulance service with 17 men on a five-day work week.

Further, Stump added, if his department is going to handle the ambulance service for only a year longer, it might be difficult to hire competent men for such a brief period.

Still another problem has risen in efforts to maintain the ambulance service at county level for at least another year.

The owner of a private ambulance firm from Kalamazoo said Monday night that if the ambulance service and the $65,000 fund is given to the sheriff's department, his company will no longer provide non-emergency transportation service in Van Buren county.

Ronald Onderlinde, owner of Mall City ambulance, said his firm has made "about one transfer" per day in the county for the past two years.

BID ON SERVICE

Mall City was one of two firms which submitted bids to a county township study committee seeking a solution on the ambulance service question.

The firm's bid of $75,000 per year for three years would have put three emergency vehicles and a transfer vehicle in the county.

Onderlinde admitted that he had provided the service as a favor to Stump and in the hopes of eventually being able to provide for the county's emergency ambulance service.

He added there were a number of welfare and migrant patients who never paid for transportation and that his firm had never asked the county to compensate for the losses.

In 1969, according to Stump's annual report, the sheriff's ambulances were dispatched 777 times on emergency calls and an additional 252 times on medical-medical calls.

The sheriff's ambulance did not generally handle non-emergency calls or transportation requests.

Coloma Citizens Report

School Building Plan
Would Be Scaled Down

COLOMA — A $2,071,853 school classroom expansion program was recommended last night by a citizens advisory committee of the school board here.

The recommendation, not binding on the board, was presented to the board by Ted Blahnik, chairman of the 30-member committee created following defeat of an earlier expansion plan in June.

Under the proposal, a bond issue would be submitted to district voters to pay for construction of a new school and additions to existing buildings.

VERBAL ATTACK

Presentation of the package came during a regular board session where board member Richard Eastman came under verbal attack from former board member Bill Schaaf. The barrage resulted from remarks Schaaf said Eastman made before becoming a board member in June.

Board President Marshall Badt scheduled a special meeting for Oct. 20 to decide on the bond issue package. "It's urgent that we meet to lay the ground work for this new proposal," he stated.

Badt said the committee's recommendation could be accepted totally, in part or rejected completely, however. He created the committee to come up with a recommendation following defeat of the earlier $2,063,000 issue.

Under the new package, a new junior high school would be built in addition to four classrooms at Pier school, two at Washington, four at the high school and two at the Coloma grade school. Additional land for the junior high school would also be involved.

Deleted from the package was a proposal for a gymnasium which was blamed, in part, for defeat of the June issue.

Blahnik, the athletic director, said the committee felt the voters defeated the last proposal because of the gymnasium request.

Superintendent of Schools William Barrett, said the estimate presented by the committee failed to allow enough for office space, a teachers' lounge and eating facilities at Pier school.

Board member Russell Carlson agreed the figure was conservative and could possibly go as high as $200,000 over the estimate.

Board member James Galles said Coloma needed a gymnasium and he added "voters can think of all kinds of excuses to defeat a proposal that would mean increased taxes, and they used the gymnasium as a whipping boy to defeat the proposal."

'GREAT INJUSTICE'

Schaaf, who left the board about two years ago, said Eastman did the school district and the community a great injustice last summer when he made accusations about school operations.

"Now that you're a member of the school board, you (Eastman) should be made accountable for your statements," public apology, and if you were wrong, you should make a public apology, and if you were right, then how were you right?"

Eastman said, "I'll let my actions speak for my stand," and thanked Schaaf for his remarks.

Dead is Mrs. Golda Wright, 81, of 2530 Pokagon road, Niles. Her granddaughter, Martha Ann Bell, 24, of 2538 Pokagon road, was admitted to the Goshen General hospital with a fractured nose and bruises and was listed in fair condition today.

Mrs. Bell's twin sons, Matthew and Michael, 22 months, were admitted with bruises and cuts and were listed in fair condition.

State police said the accident occurred when a car made a left turn in front of the car driven by Mrs. Bell. Her grandmother was dead on arrival at the Goshen hospital. Police said she died of a skull fracture and a broken neck.

Driver of the other car, Gregory D. Weimer, 17, of Ligonier, was not injured. Two passengers in his car, his mother, Mrs. Joy L. Weimer, 37, and his brother, Joseph, 10, were treated and released from the hospital.

Police said Mrs. Bell was driving north on US-33 when the Weimer car, southbound, made a left turn onto US-33. Police said charges were pending.

Funeral arrangements for Mrs. Wright were incomplete this morning at the Paul E. Mayhew funeral home, Berrien Springs.
